VISIV

Camden Town is many things to many people. A home to young families and old rockers, tech hubs and classic pubs, canal-side strolls and ramen filled bowls, its greatness is the sum of its eclectic parts. It's a place for everyone, where each of its residents has their own unique reason for living here.

Conveniently located slightly east of Camden Town and north of King's Cross, Visiv sits proudly at the heart of this vibrancy. Surrounded by green spaces, nightlife, eateries and shops, with superb connections to all of the capital, it's London living at its very best.

While the development consists of 507 homes in total, of which 251 will be available for private sale, its first phase offers just 23 superbly designed apartments. Seamlessly blending environmental, social and, of course, aesthetic design considerations, no detail has been overlooked to create somewhere remarkable to call home. Make Camden Town, your town.

PASSIVHAUS HOMES

Creating homes that stand the test of time isn't just an aesthetic decision, it's an environmental one.

Visiv has been built to meet the 'Passivhaus' standard. In real terms, this means that each of the new buildings has been designed to use a very low amount of heating.

An approach that's not only green, but good for your bank balance as it keeps your bills far smaller. It works by using a combination of high levels of insulation, triple-glazing and an innovative heat recovery ventilation system (MVHR). The first two help to keep the temperature of your new home at a steady level, while the MVHR, also known as comfort ventilation, supplies your home with clean, filtered air without you needing to do anything.

This all helps keep your home comfortable and healthy with minimal effort and, just as importantly, with minimal costs. There is also a radiator and a towel rail to provide back-up heat if you need an extra boost to help you out of bed. Every detail has been thought of.

What Passivhaus means for you:

- A comfortable home with low energy use
- Reduced CO<sub>2</sub> emissions for more sustainable and environmentally friendly living
- Heating bills typically reduced by up to 75%

My town

My town is the market, window shopping and people watching as I wander through its bustling avenues of stalls.

Attracting visitors from across London, if not the world, Camden Market is like having a shopping mall championing the independent and the alternative right on your doorstep.

From fine tailoring and bespoke eyewear, to healing crystals and vintage fashion, the diversity on offer is second-to-none. You truly never know what you'll find, making every visit into its atmospheric throng a genuine voyage of discovery.

CAMDEN MARKET

There are few places where up and coming fashion designers and collectable toy sellers happily coexist with handmade rug vendors and jewellers. Camden Market is such a place, everything you could ever imagine is here.

The area's alternative music roots are, of course, well represented. Oi Oi flies the flag for the punk and skinhead scenes of the late 70s and early 80s. Burleska specialises in leather corsets, ideal for channelling your inner goth. Then there's the temple of rave and all things glow-in-the-dark, Cyberdog.

More everyday fashion needs are also stylishly fulfilled, with any array of vintage and contemporary designer stalls and shops. What's more, your home can look just as individual as your wardrobe, with the unique homewares and art on offer. In short, whatever your tastes, the market will rise to the challenge.

There's no question that Camden Lock is the gently flowing heart of this town. Geographically and socially, it's the centre of all that happens in Camden. When the sun's out, it's like a social club for all the area's residents – ably catered for by the food stalls and bars that line it. There is no finer spot to catch up with friends, all under the watchful gaze of the canal barges and coots that bob past.

Camden

My town is searching for old treasures. Seeking out the vintage finds that appear and disappear in a blink.

Camden's always been one for new spins on old styles, so it's no surprise it's home to some of London's best vintage clothing shops – including Rokit, the capital's largest.

Alongside these are a host of places offering vintage books, furniture and other ephemera, and record stores. Surely, no Camden home is complete without an original pressing of The Clash's self-titled debut album, featuring the band shot in what is now part of the Stables Market.

^ The view from Primrose Hill

GREEN SPACES

For all Camden Town's life, and there's a lot of it, it's also a place to unwind. Its green spaces provide the perfect environment for you to step away from the stresses of London and just breathe.

While Visiv itself offers a number of outdoor spaces as part of the development, there are countless smaller parks nearby. Three of London's finest outdoor spaces, The Regent's Park (21 mins walk), Primrose Hill (26 mins walk), and Hampstead Heath (31 mins walk), are also readily accessible.

Taking in all of Central London, Primrose Hill's view is simply stunning. The stroll there, through the area's boutique fashion stores and gastropubs, is equally enjoyable. The Regent's Park is arguably even more impressive, offering 395 acres of greenery, which includes an open air theatre, formal gardens, an array of sports facilities and London Zoo. While Hampstead Heath is like having a slice of the countryside in the middle of London.

Walking timetaken from google.com/maps

INDEPENDENT SHOPS

As the birthplace of punk, it's no surprise that Camden is still a haven for independent retailers. Popular fashion brands such as H&M, Urban Outfitters and AllSaints have also come to the area, but rather than dominating the high street, they just add to its mix. It's the smaller more niche retailers that make the area something special.

The range of options on offer is astounding. Oddballs is the UK's oldest juggling supplier and purveyor of everything you can throw, catch and drop. There are more record stores than you can shake a needle at and plenty of instrument shops as well, if you're feeling inspired.

Book stores are equally well represented, add to this loose leaf tea shops, watch brands and a great many more establishments, there is so much waiting to be discovered.

Style wise, you're also well covered. General Eyewear offers vintage and bespoke glasses. The Third Estate is best known for its vegan footwear, but also offers a selection of socially-conscious brands. Camberry offers the very best in sartorial elegance for the gentleman about town. While for the lady about town, there's Universe of Us or Collectif's 40s and 50s infused creations. The options are endless.

COFFEE BARS

Coffee culture is something very close to Camden's heart. It's the perfect portable pick-me-up to enjoy all the area has to offer. There'll be a café at Visiv, so you'll never have to go far for a finely roasted caffeine fix. But when you're out and about, it's easy to top up.

As its name suggests, Camden Coffee House has been at the forefront of the area's coffee movement since 2006. They've spread to other areas, but their roots are and always have been in Camden. In fact, its founder, Sunni, was born here. The Coffee Jar is another fine venue, as the queue out its door each morning is testament to. Monmouth beans, great bacon butties and succulent banana bread, it's got it all. While with arguably the best wifi in town, Saint Espresso next to KOKO is ideal for the freelance crowd. Its amazing menu of open sandwiches perfectly complement its finely crafted brews.

My town is shaken and not stirred and drizzled in a zesty jus with a side of wilted greens.

A gig one night. Comedy the next. All fuelled by a heady mix of refined cocktails and superb culinary delights. Bars, gastropubs, restaurants and clubs. Camden has them all in abundance.

Even better, whatever your tastes and whatever your budget, you'll be spoilt for choice.
Light snacks with friends, full gastronomic experiences for special occasions or a quiet pint with the papers. You can live life at your pace.

YOUR NEW LOCAL

A great local is the cornerstone of any community and The Colonel Fawcett fills that role perfectly. A 19th Century pub with two gardens, it offers all at once; a quiet place to unwind, somewhere to dance the night away and chuckle merrily to comedy. You couldn't ask for more.

It's named after Colonel David Fawcett, who in 1834 had the dubious honour of partaking in the last fatal duel in Britain. After receiving what were terminal gunshot wounds, he retired to the pub's upstairs room and spent his last two days on this earth just as he had lived – drinking gin and entertaining his fellow patrons.

These days the gin still flows freely, with some 30 varieties available. They also offer a cocktail list to die for and a fine selection of craft beers. The food is equally plentiful, not to mention award-winning, with a superb gastropub menu of modern British cuisine that includes one of London's best roasts.

Camden's street food is unrivalled.
In the space of a few steps your tastebuds will be transported from one corner of the globe to the next.

*Please note that this image was taken before March 2020.

STREET FOOD

Food is most definitely glorious in Camden. From market stall start-ups to critically acclaimed restaurants, a world of flavours is on your doorstep. Unsurprisingly the heart of the area's street food scene is Camden Market.

There's a huge selection of options to pick from, almost too many, but that's a great reason for coming back again. Makatcha offers Malay and Indonesian cuisine, and their rendang has to be experienced. The achar, south Asian pickles, are great too. Bian Dang's Taiwanese buns come stuffed with delicious pork, chicken or oyster mushrooms, all of which are amazing.

Oli Baba's halloumi fries are another highlight. They claim to be the original creators of this dish, and when you taste it, you're sure to believe them. Arepazo Bros bring a taste of Venezuela to Camden with their stuffed-to-the-hilt arepas. While Mac Factory offer a more traditional comfort food that takes mac 'n cheese to a whole new level of gastronomic prowess. Who knew the world needed lobster mac? We do now.

RESTAURANTS

Camden's finer dining establishments are just as plentiful as its street food specialists. At the upper end of the scale you have Gordon Ramsay's York & Albany, which offers a seasonal and sophisticated British menu in the delightful surroundings of a 19th Century John Nash townhouse. Odette's is another hugely popular and refined eaterie, famed for its alfresco summer garden and seasonal European and British menu.

There are plenty of gastropubs to enjoy too, such as The Engineer and your new local, The Colonel Fawcett. But if your tastebuds are calling for more far flung shores, fear not. Shimogamo and Asakusa are both sushi lovers' heavens. La Patagonia is an Argentinian grill house, which specialises in what they do best – steak, in all its forms. Lemongrass will whisk you to Cambodia. Namaaste Kitchen transports you to India. While for the Caribbean, head to the Mango Room or Ma Petite Jamaica.

European cuisine is also well covered. Alexander the Great has cornered the market in Cypriot feasts. Lost Boys Pizza has a great name, a great 80's playlist and black charcoal pizzas. GoodFare offers a more traditional take on the food of the old country. Lastly, while not geographically specific, Mildreds has to be mentioned - their vegan and vegetarian dishes span the globe and attract visitors from across London.

My town is full of music, seeing the greats return to where they started and new acts taking their first steps to stardom.

Nowhere in London has as much musical heritage as Camden. Music flows through its streets. The Sex Pistols played one of their first shows here in 1976 and rock and roll never left.

Pink Floyd and the Ramones have graced Dingwalls. Camden's first daughter, Amy Winehouse, even worked at the Dublin Castle. Any day of the week, you'll find a host of platinum selling artists and the next big things taking to Camden's stages.

NIGHTLIFE

As night falls, Camden really comes to life. Its music scene rises each evening with a host of venues welcoming superstars and newcomers alike. Its pubs also come into their own. Some like The Hawley Arms are their own rock 'n' roll halls of fame due to their famous patrons. Others like the Dublin Castle are true grassroots venues, flying the flag for future talent.

Then there are the bars. The Cuban in the Stables Market boasts over 100 rums. Fifty-Five offers a cocktail list that's 160 drinks strong. If you can't decide what to pick, then head to B.Y.O.C, a bring your own bottle cocktail lounge where they create your drinks on the spot from the ingredients you provide. Or there's Gabeto's renowned mojitos. The list goes on and on.

Nights in Camden don't end when a new day begins either. With the late openings of many of the bars, you can hop between them to your heart's content. Or seek out one of the area's legendary clubs, such as The Underworld or The Jazz Café. New York may be the city, but Camden is the town that never sleeps.

For 30 years now, The Jazz Café has been bringing the best in soul, hip-hop, blues and, of course, jazz to Camden.

THE ROUNDHOUSE

Built in 1847 by the London & North Western Railway, The Roundhouse originally held a railway turntable. Its industrial beginnings couldn't be further from its current standing as one of London's finest arts venues and arguably, the jewel in the crown of Camden's music scene.

Led Zeppelin. Bob Dylan. Otis Redding. The Clash. It's played host to many of the music world's greatest artists. A trend that shows no signs of abating, as the stars of days gone by are joined by the new breed of international icons. Not to mention a broad-ranging programme of theatre, dance and spoken word performances.

The venue is more than a great night out though. It's a hub of inspiration and champion of the arts, supporting thousands of young people to harness their creativity. Through their music, media and performance programmes and artistic residencies, every visit helps to support the next generation of talent to achieve their potential.

KING'S CROSS

*Please note that this image was taken before March 2020.
Please continue to follow The Government's advice regarding social distancing.*

When you see it today, playing host to a who's who of business, acclaimed restaurants and independent retailers, it's hard to imagine King's Cross as an industrial wasteland. One of the largest and most exciting redevelopments London's ever seen, the area has undergone a complete transformation in recent years.

Paying tribute to its history, there are still echoes of the past in its architecture. But make no mistake, this is a whole new neighbourhood.

A lively district that's packed with enticing shops, galleries, bars and restaurants. Central St Martins University and Google already call it home. Facebook soon will. And with each big arrival, its reputation as a destination in its own right, steps out of the shadow of the eponymous railway station that bit further.

CYCLING & WALKING ABOUT

While Camden's transport links are superb, its location also means it's ideal for exploring the capital by foot or bicycle. The Regent's Canal towpath is a particularly useful and picturesque asset in this respect.

Winding through the heart of Camden Town, it puts dynamic areas like Angel and King's Cross just moments away. Not to mention iconic destinations, such as The Regent's Park, London Zoo and Lord's Cricket Ground.

*This 3D drawing demonstrates the three floors of a multi-level apartment.
Please note that the design varies between apartments.*

Set over three floors, the innovative design of Visiv's 18 multi level apartments offers a separation of living spaces that's traditionally only found in a house.

As the illustration shows, the layouts are like zigzagging townhouses, with upper first floors reinforcing the tremendous sense of space the double ceiling heights offer.

There are a mix of one and two bedroom apartments available, all of which are finished to the highest standards - they just vary in terms of their layouts.

The one beds have separate kitchen/ dining areas and living rooms. While the two beds combine these spaces and some also offer a study, which is ideal for home working. Explore the options and see which is best for your lifestyle.

MÆ ARCHITECTS

From the large scale of the city to the small scale of the living room, MÆ always design with people at the forefront of their mind. Great housing needs to be attractive to those passing by and delightful for those living in it.

At Agar Grove they've designed high quality homes to demanding Passivhaus standards; environmentally friendly buildings that look good too. For instance, slender window frames and triple glazing combine elegance with extraordinary energy performance – one of many measures that will result in very low heating bills and extremely comfortable homes for residents. Their passion for good design has also led our efforts to stitch the new buildings seamlessly into the surroundings, in order to preserve and support the existing and evolving Agar Grove community.

Each new apartment has a multi-level layout, which ensures that all residents have a private and peaceful space that is not overlooked – an important factor in creating homes that are comfortable, safe and enjoyable to live in.

Alongside private domestic space, they have also designed high quality communal areas to support neighbourliness. MÆ are very proud of their work at Agar Grove: the largest new build Passivhaus scheme to receive planning in the UK, and an example of estate regeneration that blends creativity, humanity and sustainability.

MÆ sought to create spacious, interesting homes that will prove enjoyable to live in. The design draws from the rich heritage of the area and from their fascination with what makes for a good home in order to create something distinct and original.

HILL

Hill is one of the leading developers in London and the south east of England, delivering distinctive and award-winning new homes. Hill is a 5 star housebuilder, and was named Housebuilder of the Year, medium and large, in 2018.

In 2019 Hill celebrated their 20th anniversary, and across their 20 year history, Hill's family owned and operated company has grown to establish itself as the UK's third largest privately owned housebuilder. They have an impressive and diverse portfolio ranging from landmark mixed use regeneration schemes and luxurious inner-city apartments to modern rural developments. Hill has been awarded more than 300 accolades over their 20-years, which is a testament to their hard work and high-quality homes.

Hill is committed to creating sustainable communities and developments which are both high quality and eco-friendly places to live. They aim to minimise their impact on the environment and maximise the implementation of sustainable initiatives by creating high quality and environmentally friendly communities and developments.

Hill builds around 2,000 homes a year, including more than 1,000 for clients and partners in the affordable housing sector, and they have a pipeline of more than 5,000 homes. In addition, around half of their development portfolio is in joint venture, emphasising their commitment to partnerships and longstanding relationships.

HAWKINS\BROWN

Hawkins\Brown is an internationally renowned, award-winning practice of architects, interior designers, urban designers and researchers based in four studios in London, Manchester, Edinburgh and Los Angeles.

They bring people together in playful and profound ways – working from district to doorknob, all the way through from the first sketch to site construction, and on buildings large or small, be they homes, railway stations, universities, schools, workplaces, or museums.

As the masterplan architect, they have been working at Agar Grove since 2013, with collaborating architect MÆ, landscape designer, Grant Associates, local residents, Camden Council and contractor Hill, to deliver a new neighbourhood that people will be proud to live in.

They have finished the first phase of Passivhaus homes for local residents receiving several awards. The low energy construction means that residents will have lower fuel bills and greater environmental comfort, and will be delivering to this principle throughout the neighbourhood.

Once the first part of Visiv is complete, they will begin delivering the next phase of homes, including duplexes, single-level apartments, and generously sized ground floor apartments for step free-living. The homes will have recessed balconies and sunrooms that will allow flexible use year-round, whilst the ground level homes will have private terraces and open onto landscaped gardens.

CAMDEN COUNCIL

Investing in Camden

We don't just build beautiful new homes. Created and managed by Camden Council, The Camden Collection is a major contributor to the Borough's Community Investment Programme (CIP). By building these new homes for sale and market rent, The Camden Collection generates revenue which is in turn reinvested into CIP to benefit the wider community. This is what we call Better London Living.

What is CIP?

The Community Investment Programme (CIP) is our ambitious plan to invest over £1 billion in homes, schools and community spaces in Camden. It's our answer to government spending cuts – an innovative way to continue building in our communities despite massive reductions in central government funding.

Through the programme we're building 3,050 new homes, including 1,100 council homes and 300 at genuinely affordable Camden Living rents. We're also investing in 48 schools and children's centres and providing 9,000m<sup>2</sup> of improved community space – equivalent of 35 tennis courts. CIP is helping to fund improvements to 22,500 existing council homes as part of the Council's Better Homes Programme. Each scheme is designed in partnership with residents and delivered directly by the Council, giving local people the chance to have their say and shape plans for their community.

How it Works

To date we have built 865 homes through CIP and have another 120 under construction and planning permission for a further 1,250.

We've invested £165 million into schools and children's centres including the completion of three new primary school buildings. We've also built new community facilities like the St Pancras Community Centre and the Greenwood Centre - Camden's first Centre for Independent Living, run by disabled people, for disabled people. We've also refurbished old hostels into state of the art accommodation and training facilities for homeless people. We are funding this investment in affordable homes, schools and community facilities by building homes for private sale and by selling buildings and land that we no longer need. Every pound raised through these sales is reinvested back into Camden – for the benefit of residents today and in the future.
